MARGARET EDGSON MANOR

Help rebuild homes that make independence real

70 affordable homes in Grande Prairie, 20 of them barrier-free.

WHAT HAPPENED

A fire, and a second chance

On June 9, 2025, fire badly damaged Margaret Edgson Manor. Thanks to first responders, no lives were lost, but more than 70 residents lost the homes that gave them independence.

The volunteer board chose to rebuild. The new Manor will again have 70 homes, with four more barrier-free homes than before the fire.

What your gift can help build

About $50

A ramp onto the balcony

A small threshold ramp, so a wheelchair rolls straight out the patio door without a bump.

About $400

A sliding door

A sliding door opens easily from a wheelchair, with no door swinging into the way.

About $2,000 to $6,000

An adjustable kitchen counter

A counter that moves up or down, so someone can cook at the right height, seated or standing.

About $6,400

A ceiling track

A track across the ceiling for a lift to run on, so a person can move from bed to wheelchair safely without being lifted by hand.

Amounts are estimates for one home and will change once contractor quotes are in. Every gift goes to the Margaret Edgson Manor rebuild; these show what a gift of that size can help build.
